

Packages Development Services

Designing practical, structured, and context-responsive learning programmes tailored to your organization's needs.

What we do?

ENPHO develops evidence-based and contextually relevant training packages and modules using the ADDIE method. Backed by technical expertise and field experience, these materials are practical, participatory, and responsive to actual learning needs and programme priorities. ENPHO develops training packages specially on WASH and WASH Plus topics like WASH System Strengthening, Household Water Treatment Options, Citywide Inclusive Sanitation, Community WASH Facilitation, Drinking Water Quality Testing, WASH for Health Institute, Faecal Sludge Treatment Plant Design, Occupational Health, WASH and Nutrition, WASH for Schools, Gender and Social Inclusion in WASH, WASH and Climate Change, etc. ENPHO also offers consulting services to organizations, projects, and programmes requiring tailored and technical packages, including the customization of existing training packages and modules as well as the development of new training packages addressing specific contexts, needs, and objectives of different clients, projects, and programmes. ENPHO develops packages and modules with technical support from content experts and process experts from the sector to maintain quality and consistency. Also, endorsed packages from government line agencies for wider use and credibility. Each package is reviewed after 2 years of development.

How we do it?

- Identify capacity gaps, target groups, and learning objectives
- Design, develop/customize training packages, modules, facilitator guides, and session materials
- Technical review and stakeholder feedback to strengthen quality, relevance, and usability
- Piloting of draft materials with target users to test practicality and effectiveness
- Final refinement of content based on pilot learning and feedback
- Rollout of finalized training packages for wider implementation and use
